THE CONTEMPORARY REVIEW, THE EDITOR, AND THE PUBLIC.

THE CONTEMPORARY REVIEW has now entered upon the twelfth year of a history in which it has, I hope, justified its title, by reflecting, with increasing breadth and completeness, the best of contemporary thought and culture in all their higher phases. But certain gratuitous statements and rumours, founded upon inaccurate information—these being followed by criticisms made even more in the dark—call, perhaps, for a word of comment.

Neither the specific statements, the rumours, nor the criticisms, represent any approach to the truth. The necessary factors are wanting in them all, and these concern no one except in the result. I shall content myself, and shall best consult the dignity of Literature and the true policy of public discussion in such matters, if I dismiss the whole question in a few words:—There is no reason whatever for suggesting that the change of STRAHAN & Co. into STRAHAN & Co. LIMITED will have the effect in any way of altering the policy or narrowing the basis of THE CONTEMPORARY REVIEW. On the contrary, the change will have the effect of preventing THE REVIEW from becoming the organ of any sect or party, or otherwise ceasing to be the open platform which it was intended to be from the beginning.

THE CONTEMPORARY REVIEW will continue to be edited by me; and I leave it, with cheerful hope, to speak for itself and its conductor.

ALEXANDER STRAHAN.

SLACK'S SILVER ELECTRO-PLATE is a coating of pure Silver over SLACK'S NICKEL, a metal amalgamated, on CHEMICAL PRINCIPLES, almost to the purity and whiteness of Silver, which renders it, as a basis for Electro-Silvering, the best article that can be produced, while the fact of twenty years' wear is ample proof of its durability.

THE LIFE & WRITINGS OF ST. JOHN.

By the Rev. JAMES M. MACDONALD, D.D.

Edited, with an Introduction, by the
Very Rev. J. S. HOWSON, D.D.,
DEAN OF CHESTER,
Joint Author of "Conybeare and Howson's St. Paul."

With Twenty-one Full-page Illustrations, engraved especially for this work from recent Photographs, five Maps, &c.

"We have no hesitation in saying that we agree with Dean Howson in regarding this volume 'as a really valuable addition to our theological and religious literature.' It is a great boon to get in one volume all that is known of the Apostle John, and to read his life and writings in connexion with the general history of the period. The work of Dr. Macdonald throughout is careful, well informed, and full of suggestiveness. It has done for the life and writings of the Apostle John what Conybeare and Howson have done for the life and epistles of the Apostle of the Gentiles. The Illustrations are excellent, and add much to the interest of the book. A book more beautifully and felicitously illustrated we have seldom seen."

Edinburgh Daily Review.

"A work which, for exhaustiveness of treatment, accuracy of detail, and beauty and brilliancy of narrative, has no rival on the special subject here treated by this learned and able writer. It is illustrated throughout by a series of beautifully-executed maps, portraits, and landscapes, engraved after the most acceptable authorities."—Public Opinion.

STUDIES ON THE NEW TESTAMENT.

By F. GODET, D.D.,
Professor of Theology, Neuchâtel.

Edited by the
Hon. and Rev. W. H. LYTTTELTON, M.A.,
Rector of Hagley, and Honorary Canon of Worcester.

"Unquestionably M. Godet is one of the first, if not the very first, of contemporary commentators on the Scripture. His portraits and his descriptions are projected upon the canvas with the brilliancy of the oxy-hydrogen light, as compared with the oil-lamp of ordinary comprehension; and we have no hesitation in advising all students of the Scripture to procure and to read with careful attention these luminous essays."

THE INDUCTIVE METHOD OF CHRISTIAN INQUIRY.

By PERCY STRUTT.

THE DESIGN OF THIS ESSAY IS—

1. To indicate the way in which the Baconian method, which has been so successfully employed in physical research, may also be used as a means of collecting general truths from the original facts of the Gospel.
2. To show that in the use of Induction certain ethical conditions must be observed, and that these conditions are to be found in Christianity itself.
3. To trace some of the leading characteristics of Experimental Christianity as revealed in the life of individual believers and in the history of the Church.

THE NINETEENTH CENTURY.

A MONTHLY REVIEW.

EDITED BY JAMES KNOWLES,

Late of "The Contemporary Review."

The management of The Contemporary Review has recently passed into the hands of a Limited Company, consisting of Mr. Samuel Morley, Mr. Francis Peek, the Rev. Mr. Paton (of the Independent College at Nottingham), and others, and formed for the purpose of "Editing, Managing, and Publishing The Contemporary Review, The Day of Rest, Good Things for the Young, and Peepshow." A separation has taken place between the Review and Mr. Knowles, whose editorial connexion with it dated from the resignation in 1870 of Dean Alford, its first editor.

The change made, after Mr. Knowles joined it, in the conduct of The Contemporary, by enlarging the comparatively limited "platform" of the Dean, and converting it into an entirely free and open field, where all forms of honest opinion and belief (represented by men of sufficient weight) should be not only tolerated, but equally welcomed, met with the marked approval of the public.

The results of that policy were such as now encourage Mr. Knowles in establishing, by the help of his friends, a new Review, under the title of THE NINETEENTH CENTURY, which will be conducted on the absolutely impartial and unsectarian principles which governed The Contemporary during his connexion with it.

He trusts that the following list of those who, amongst others, have promised their support to THE NINETEENTH CENTURY will be accepted as a justification of his undertaking and of the title he has chosen for it; a title which he ventures to hope may become, in due course of time, THE TWENTIETH CENTURY.
